{The Columbus Arts Festival}

The Columbus Arts Festival proudly celebrates its 47th year June 6-8, 2008. Columbus' Discovery District will be transformed into a stunning outdoor art gallery as the nation's top artists display their work and attract art enthusiasts from all over the country.

Shop for Art. The Artists' Market is one of the nation's best, featuring over 250 fine artists and fine craftspeople from across the country.

Entertainment. We have music, dance and more on two main stages and throughout the event. Everything from Jazz and Dixieland to Reggae and Contemporary music is featured at the festival.

Indulge. Enjoy some of your favorite Columbus restaurants on site.

Hands-on Activities. Demonstrations, instruction and family fun performances provided by local arts organizations and community groups.

Children's Art Gallery. Come and visit this special kid-sized gallery where only children can shop. All artwork is generously donated by exhibiting artists and sold at a $5 maximum.

Children's Theater. Pinocchio comes to life Saturday and Sunday in the Topiary Garden behind the Columbus Metropolitan Library.

{Be Changed}

Capture the Moment: The Pulitzer Prize Photographs, the largest display of Pulitzer-Prize winning photographs ever shown, runs through July 25 at the Ohio Historical Center in Columbus. This special exhibition will feature 150 award-winning images from 1942, when the Pulitzer Prize for photojournalism was established, through 2007.

Of the millions of photographs seen in newspapers each year, only two win the coveted Pulitzer Prize—one for spot or breaking news and the other for feature photography. The award-winning images record the defining moments of our time captured by photojournalists doing their daily job—working on assignment close to home or around the globe. They were at the right place at the right time and had the skill and the daring to seize the opportunity when it presented itself.

Visitors to the exhibition will see one of the most extensive and dramatic photographic displays ever mounted at the museum. The images, 20x30" and 30x40", are arranged chronologically on large panels, filling the main exhibit gallery. Each is accompanied by a firsthand account of the events leading up to the photograph. Some of the photographs have become icons of their time: the flag raising at Iwo Jima, the shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald, the joyful family reunion of a returning Vietnam POW, the World Trade Center attack. Others record forgotten events of the last six decades. While some images tell the stories of famous people, others portray the lives of ordinary citizens.

"The pictures show the brutalities of our age, but the Pulitzer photojournalists also recorded tender and compassionate moments", said curator Cyma Rubin. "Shown together in the exhibition the photographs make us think about the realities of world events. Anyone who views the exhibition will be changed by the experience."

Capture the Moment: The Pulitzer Prize Photographs was developed by the Newseum, the interactive museum of news, in association with Business of Entertainment, Inc. NYC, Cyma Rubin, curator. The Newseum, which opened a new facility on April 11 Washington D.C., is funded by the Freedom Forum, a nonpartisan foundation dedicated to free press, free speech and free spirit for all people.
